

COMBAT MINDSET BRANDMARK

Solid forms, round 2

Army Command School

August 2026

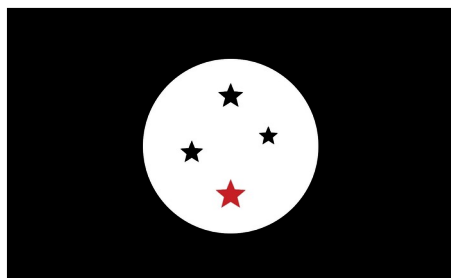

Round one drew the marks as outlines, which read thin. These are solid forms with the symbol cut out of them, so the mass carries the weight and the detail is subtractive. The centre column shows each mark at document, slide and favicon size; a mark that survives the smallest of these is the one worth building.

BRANDMARK

AT SIZE

LOCKUP

A ROUNDEL The disc carries the weight; the cross is cut out of it. Holds at any size.

B SHIELD Keeps the protection of the shield, with the national reference cut into it.

C FERN A solid frond, and the only option carrying no red. The quietest of the four.

D PATCH Unit-patch geometry. The heaviest of the four and the most at home on cloth.

Note. In the three cross options the leading star is struck in red. It is the only colour in the mark, it sits at the point of the cross, and it carries the accent through to the tagline.
