

COMBAT MINDSET PATCH

The NZ Army fern, cut into the patch

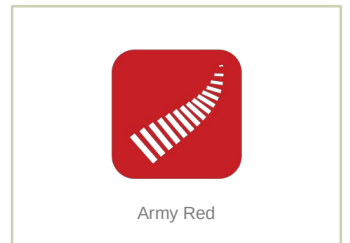

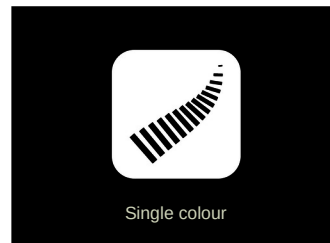

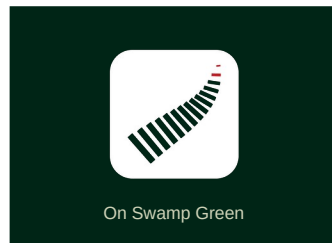

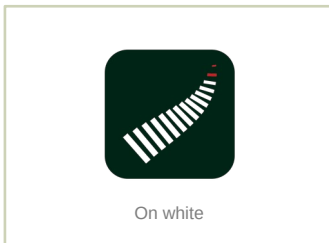

Army Command School

August 2026

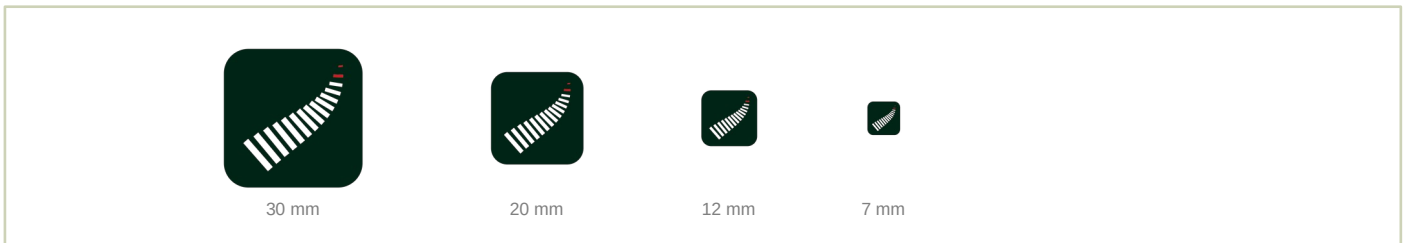

The interior is the fern from the NZ Army logo, traced as a fan of tapering pinnae along a curving frond and cut out of the solid patch. Nothing is invented: the mark borrows the Army's own device and gives it the patch geometry. The leading pinnae are struck in red, the single accent in the mark.

Note. The fern here is a trace, close enough to judge the direction. If this is the mark, the final artwork should take the fern outline from the NZ Army master files rather than a redraw, so the two devices match exactly wherever they appear together.
